Ashlee started dancing at the age of two and continued dancing throughout high school and college. Growing up she trained at various dance schools in MA and RI, concluding her last years of high school at Festival Ballet in Providence, RI. Her passion for dance stretched far beyond the dance studio and she chose to study dance as a major in college, receiving her B.A. in dance from Dean College in 2010. Ashlee’s expertise in dance comes from many years of competing and performing in high school and performing in Ballet and Modern companies in college, as well as being a dance team member at Dean. She has also extensively studied the art of teaching dance and is Acrobatic Arts Certified. In addition to her training, Ashlee has taught at many different professional, recreational, and competitive dance schools and has toured as a judge with a National Dance Competition. Ashlee has worked at the Newman YMCA for over 17 years and founded the Shooting Stars School of Dance Program in 2009. Among her credits, Ashlee was also elected as a 2017, 2018 and 2019 New England Patriots Cheerleader before choosing to hang up her poms and focus on the growth of SSSOD. Her goal is to share her love, passion, and expertise in dance to all that are willing to learn. She wants to provide a positive and safe space for aspiring dancers to learn and grow; while nurturing their love for dance as well.
